

Fourth Street Missionary Baptist Church

Strategic Plan For An Orderly Return

(Revised 2/15/2022)

The Strategic Plan for an orderly return to the Fourth Street Missionary Baptist Church

Ever since the country learned that states were going to begin reopening businesses and commerce, the church has been elated that it will once again be able to gather again very soon. Anticipation is high, although concerns remain about just how quickly to get “back to normal.”

I do not know of any church leader who is looking to return with a “business as usual” mindset. We could rush in where angels fear to tread, but why? Perhaps we should apply I Corinthians 14:40-43 to our present situation: “Let everything be done decently and in order...since God is not a God of disorder...” While the verses refer to orderliness in the worship experience, the principle of orderliness in God’s house can be applied to the church’s return to its facilities.

This is our moment to celebrate our return not just to the campus, but to one another. As we return to one another on campus and in our Bible study groups, orderliness and thoughtfulness will win the day. We are under shepherds of God’s people. As under shepherds, one of our chief roles is that of protector. Shepherds in biblical times had to be prepared to defend the flock against predators and thieves. Shepherds were temporary stewards of their master’s sheep, and we are no different. As church leaders, we shepherd God’s people, and a large part of our role is to protect, to anticipate, and to act on behalf of the sheep entrusted to us by God.

To be orderly and not disorderly, let us think about returning to the Lord’s house in a planned and organized way.

There will be some overlap in the plan and ministries. One area will prepare the way for the next, but each area will continue to build on previous ones. Ultimately, we will succeed in returning to our church buildings. I believe ultimately, we will be a better church. We are already reaching more people online in both worship and in Bible study groups – I hear that from leaders all over the country. We have pivoted quickly as the church, and we are learning new ways of ministry.

Our church, as well as other churches is going to look back on this moment in church history and remember these days – they are days of a paradigm shift that we have not seen before. My mother once told me she could vividly remember what she was doing when she heard that Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. had been assassinated. I can remember what I was doing when I learned that Michael Jackson had died. I imagine you remember what you were doing when you learned the twin towers had collapsed because of terrorist attacks. We will all remember COVID-19 and how it changed us and our churches.

The goal is to “do things decently and in order” and to have a plan that we can use that work for our congregation. Our focus is to return in the spirit of revival, not in the spirit of survival.

Key Focus: Returning to the Building

Key Issues in this Phase: LOGISTICS/SAFETY/PROTECTION PLAN:

- Worship: Masks to be worn in the sanctuary 7:45 a.m and 10:45 am; physical distancing.
